Mark Easterly and Bill Coy, neighbors to the landfill, asked many questions concerning the risks of radioactive contamination now and in the future from the more than 42,000 tons of demolition debris. Michigan State University health physicist Paul Rossi said, "I am very confident that Consumers Energy has really worked hard on this disposal plan. It has been competently put together and the debris will be checked and double checked by technicians using equipment able to detect extremely small amounts of radioactivity."

Suspects charged in restaurant burglary

by Cheryll Ruley Staff Writer

Two Grayling residents have been arraigned on felony charges for the break-in and burglary of a local eating establishment.

Gary Arthur Partlow III, age 17, and 40-year old Michael Joseph Konecny were arrested on February 28 by Grayling City Police and later arraigned in 83rd District Court on one count each of breaking and entering with the intent to commit burglary for their alleged involvement in a burglary that netted less than $300.

The crime occurred in the early morning hours of February 27 at Patti's Towne House in Grayling. Police were able to recover much of what was stolen from the restaurant.

A pre-trial conference is scheduled for March 23 and a preliminary examination is set for March 27 for the pair who are considered codefendants. Partlow is on probation for a September, 1999 crime of throwing rocks off a local highway overpass. Because of the seriousness of that crime, he was tried as an adult and, last April, was convicted of felonious assault after his attorney reached a plea agreement with Crawford County Prosecutor John Huss, dropping the original two counts of attempted murder. After Partlow admitted his guilt, he was sentenced to 12 months in jail and four years probation for the rock throwing incident that damaged two vehicles traveling on I-75.

Circuit Court Judge Dennis F. Murphy told Partlow at his sentencing last April that a violation of his probation would cause the original charges to stand and he would go to

An initial gift of $500,000 by Leslie Devereaux, plus large contributions from Weyerhaeuser, Charles Fick, the Nelson Miles estate and several other contributions toward the library building, furnishings, and equipment will allow upgrades which should make the new Devereaux Library a first-class facility.

The Friends of the Crawford County Library are presently soliciting contributions and memorial gifts for many items on a "wish list" of needs to equip a modern library.

Fish Hatchery Nature Park rules adopted

▶ Grayling Township Board approves park rules and regulations

by Cheryll Ruley Staff Writer

The Grayling Township Board of Trustees has adopted an ordinance stating the rules and regulations of the Fish Hatchery Nature Park currently under development.

The park straddles the East Branch of the AuSable River and is located on the north side of North Down River Road, directly across the street from the Grayling Fish Hatchery.

The township leased the 45 acres of park land from Crawford County specifically to enhance the ongoing hatchery restoration project and to provide visitors a place to relax and enjoy nature.

CHIROPRACTIC FOR BETTER HEALTH Dr. Craig Denholm CHIROPRACTOR-

IS YOUR CHILD ATHLETIC?

If your child is athletic, his enthusiasm for sports can sometimes lead to problems. Minor injuries are common enough when two bodies collide at full velocity. But body contact is not the only problem.

Starts and stops at high speed, twisting and turning into awkward positions may cause strains to muscles, limbs, and back. Untempered enthusiasm may cause a youngster to try harder and play longer than is good for him. If his body is fatigued, there is injury.

And if he's too.proud to complain of minor injuries, how do you find out if there's a problem that should be treated before it becomes worse?

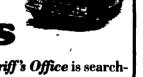

The best answer is periodic chiropractic examinations. These are recommended before the season begins, so he can start in top form. They're also recommended whenever an injury occurs as well as at the end of the season. Any structural defects should get the correction and treatment needed to keep your child in good health.

VOLUNTEER VICTIM

SERVICES UNIT SEEKS VOLUNTEE

The new Volunteer Victim Services Unit at the Crawford County Sheriff's Office is searching for Volunteer Advocates. The Volunteers will work in pairs when they are requested by area police agencies. Sometimes they will respond to the scene of a traffic accident, drowning or other tragedy, sometimes to the scene of a domestic violence incident.

They will act as a go-between or liaison between the family and police. The Advocates will help by calling other family members or friends, a minister or priest; perhaps they will simply make coffee and provide a shoulder to cry on. Their help is meant to be only on a short term basis.

Crawford County began putting its program into place earlier this year. It will culminate in a 20 hour training program the last weekend in April, during which the new Volunteer Advocates will learn about accident and crime scene investigations, sexual assault, the role of the medical examiner, the criminal justice system and how to assist a grieving family.

Interested individuals may contact Victim/Witness Coordinator, Sharon Huss at 517-344-3248. This program is sponsored by the Michigan Sheriff's Association. The statewide group works with county sheriff's departments throughout the state to set up local programs.

by Richard Milliman

Dick Posthumous may have clear sailing

IT'S BEGINNING to look more and more as if Lt. Gov. Dick Posthumous will have clear sailing toward the Republican nomination for governor in 2002.

Ever since Gov. John Engler tapped his old MSU college buddy to run for lieutenant governor on his final lap around the gubernatorial track, it's been obvious Mr. Engler wanted Mr. Posthumous as his successor.

Of course, it doesn't always work that way, Mr. Engler has not always had his way within the Michigan Republican Party, although his batting average is pretty high.

In 1998, the governor wanted a name candidate, Scott Romney of Oakland County, on his ticket for attorney general, but the GOP state convention insisted on John Smietanka from western Michigan instead.

Mr. Smietanka lost big to newcomer Democrat Jennifer Granholm.

Did Mr. Engler have inside information in 1998? Could Mr. Romney -- who was the only Republican candidate to win a partisan statewide race (for MSU trustee) in the 2000 election -- have beaten Ms. Granholm in It's arguable, but interesting.

THIS TIME, however, the evidence is mounting that the Governor's choice of Dick Posthumous is the only viable option available to the GOP party faithful.

Mr. Posthumous is being given statewide camera exposure in puff pieces as the official state mouthpiece for everything from state tuition grants to safe driving. Coincidental? Not likely.

Potential primary opponents for the 2002 governor's race are falling by the roadside.

Candice Miller is the most noteworthy. With her tenure as secretary of state doomed by term limits, the obvious next political step for her would be a shot at the governor's chair. Early in the game, she openly explored the idea.

Instead, Ms. Miller seems ready to run for Congress in a new Republican-leaning congressional district created in her home area to fit her like a tight glove.

Republican redistricters can achieve two ends for the price of one: Getting rid of 12term Democratic Rep. David Bonior, plus clearing Ms. Miller out of the lieutenant governor's path to the governor's nomina-

THEN THERE'S Sen. Dan DeGrow, leader of Republican forces in the Michigan senate, who had been making noises about running for governor.

Mr. DeGrow also is a victim of term limits in the 2002 election, and the governor's office would be a logical step for the talented and long serving legislator, whose senate post gives him access to many political

But not this time. Mr. DeGrow's not running for governor either. He announced the other day he wants the GOP nomination for attorney general.

So who's left except Dick Posthumous? About the only potential candidate to be found in the usual hunting grounds is another state senator, John J.H. Schwartz of Battle Creek, who has said he is studying his

UNDER THE right circumstances, Joe Schwarz could be a formidable Republican candidate for governor. He's conservative, with enough maverick in his makeup to attract popular support across the board.

He's a worker, who understands the political process and what it takes to win elections. In the 2000 presidential maneuvering in Michigan, for example, he stepped forward to head up the Michigan campaign of Sen. John McCain, when Gov. Engler and the entire state party structure was solidly behind Gov. George W. Bush.

The rest is history, as they say. The Schwarz-led McCain primary campaign tucked Michigan solidly behind John McCain for president, and Gov. Engler's promised "fire wall in Michigan" to stem a string of Bush primary setbacks never happened.

Is all that enough to give Sen. Schwarz a legitimate chance to derail the Posthumous express to the GOP nomination? Probably

Of course, politics always is iffy, and lots can happen in a short time.

But as of now, it looks as if Dick Posthumous will have a clear sail to the general election... unless Democrats would like to shift one or two of their excess candidates over to the Republican ticket. They seem to have plenty.

Student appreciates those who support the younger generation

To the editor and the citizens of Crawford County.

First, I, as a student of Grayling High School, would like to commend Ms. Marge Franklin and Mr. Chad Patterson, who wrote in two weeks ago (March 8 edition) on the issue of the bond proposals, for their understanding and consideration of the obvious problems at our school. Your support is greatly appreciated! I am a 17-year old junior and the first time I can, I will definitely vote "ves" because I understand the need.

To Mr. James Allman, with all due respect, please understand that you voted on two very separate proposals: one to give us heat and 'waterfall-free' rooms, along with muchneeded classrooms and a new cafeteria; the other to update our gym and other 'frills' such as new bleachers and an updated girl's locker room, which is half the size of the boy's locker room.

About 120 seniors will be graduating this year and the incoming Freshman class is very close to 200 new students. Whether or not you decided to vote "no" or decided to have mercy on us, I do not know. This letter will not effect your choice, but eventually, at least one of the proposals will pass.

For future thought, if you bought a brand-new house 25 years ago and did absolutely nothing to keep it up over those 25 years, it would be a horrible mess. You cannot possibly expect a building with constant wear and tear to be in perfect condition after 25 years. Lucky for you, you will not have to pay for the neglect of the building by yourself. The longer we put it off, the worse it gets. It was not this bad when the new (and money-making) stadium

Maybe next time (if there will be a 'next time') we should all vote "no" and donate $25 to buy all the students, staff and visitors umbrellas for when it rains inside, blankets for when the air conditioners kick on in January, and battery-powered, handheld fans for when the heaters finally come on... in about mid-May,

I know you all have already voted and I hope you voted "yes" -- even though I will not reap the benefits. I still appreciated those of you who want to support the younger generation by giving them a decent place to

Are five generating plants too many?

To the editor,

The possibility of adding Grayling and Cadillac to the list of plants permitted to burn waste wood and tdf (tire derived fuel) should be questioned because of the following concerns.

The concentration of five generating plants burning scrap wood and tdf is a potential environmental problem in northern lower Michigan. If all five plants are permitted to burn tdf and scrap wood at the maximum limits allowed by the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality, millions of pounds of sulfur dioxide (SO2) will be emitted into the northern Michigan

Acid rain resulting from this large quantity of SO2 would add to the pollution of our air, land, and rivers. In addition to the SO₂ emissions, the particulate from these plants should be analyzed to determine if any heavy metals are being released.

The added emissions to our air, land and water from the generating plants located in northern lower Michigan may result in an increase in health problems involving respiratory ailments such as asthma and lung cancer.

Within a 65 to 70-mile radius of Grayling, four generating plants are operating as well as the one outside of Grayling. The location, proximity and number of these plants is alarming. The Hillman and Lincoln plants are 35 miles apart. The Cadillac and McBain plants are only 10 miles apart. Contained in the 65 to 70mile radius area are many major lakes and rivers.

How much total SO2 will the five generating plants be permitted to release per year?

Are five generating plants burning scrap wood and tdf really needed in northern lower

The availability of a practical low-cost scrubber unit could possibly remove or reduce some of the undesirable pollutants contained in the emissions from these generating plants. A lowcost scrubber development would be a good project for an engineering department at one of our Michigan universities.

Preach God's word as it is

To the editor.

Having read the "Courageous Christian" by Pastor B also, morality is about respect, not sexual orientation. Having been born-again of the Spirit of God (John 3:7) 43 years ago, and called of God to preach His word, ordained by Him (John 15:16), I preached it over 38

I read with deep concern the letter by Terry Dickinson, when he said, quote: Furthermore, it is sad that words like "family values" and "Christian" are employed to put a nice face on bigotry and hate. As an ordained minister, it disturbs me that the Bible and religion continue to be misused to maintain a prejudice that is based on misinformation by writers who believed the world was flat; end quote.

I have no desire to argue his point that modern science has clearly demonstrated that same-sex attraction is an issue of biology, not morality; but I don't follow modern science, I am following Jesus Christ! I must be true to God's word that I preach.

Jesus said, (Matt.4:4) "It is written, man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.' God's word is more important to me than what any man says, for it feeds the soul! So, I will allow God to do the judging. (Rom.1:24-28) King James Version, which is all I use, says, "Wherefore God also gave them up to uncleanness through the lusts of their own hearts, to dishonor their own bodies between themselves; who changed the truth of God into a lie, and worshipped and served the creature more than the creator, who is blessed forever. Amen. For this cause, God gave them up unto vile affections; for even their women did change their natural use into that which is against. nature; likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another; men with men working that which is unseemly, and receiving that recompence of their error which was meet. And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient."

It makes me shudder to read where, twice, God gave them up, but in verse 28, God gave them over to a reprobate mind. (Gal.5:19) "Now the works of the flesh which are manifest are these: adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness." (Verse 24) "And they that are Christ's have crucified the flesh with its affections and lusts." What kind of life will any child have growing up in such an environment?

If we are going to preach, let's preach God's word as it is. We are to pray for these people, but we are not to condone their lifestyle. What is a post-modern believer? I don't find one in my Bible!

Build a woodshed; burning tires stink

Regarding the burning of tires at the plant on Four Mile Road, what those guys need is a woodshed.

I've burned wood for 10 years, and agree it burns poorly if wet.

When I moved here, I built a woodshed, and I wouldn't burn tires if you gave 'em to me; they stink and are probably toxic.

Where was Bart?

To the editor,

Last week there was a very important bill which was passed in the U.S.Congress.

This bill, H.R.3, if passed by the Senate, will return to the American taxpayer just under one trillion dollars in the form of a tax cut, thereby relieving working Americans of a portion of the overcharge that has been paid to the federal government to date.

This historic bill was passed by every Republican and something like 10 Democrats in the Congress (House Representatives).

Dave Camp even came to the floor to speak in favor of this bill; however, one vote was glaringly absent that day, and guess which vote that was? Have you guessed it vet?

Well, hold onto your hat Mr. Editor, because that absent vote was from none other than our illustrious representative here in northern Michigan, Bart Stupak.

Could it be that Bart Stupak was home sick that day? Or, could it be that he was being held hostage somewhere? knows?

I certainly don't know for sure why Bart Stupak failed to represent 'his constituents on this issue, but I have an idea. I think that Bart Stupak didn't have the courage to cast a vote up, or down, and frankly I'm embarrassed for him. Does the word weasel" come to mind?

Come on, Bart baby, you were sent back to Washington to speak for us and you failed. You owe us an explanation. Let's hear it!

The Bible Speaks

Atheists Offended

It seems illogical to me that Atheists who claim to believe there is no God. can appear so fearful of, and fight so hard against Judeo-Christianity. In Russia, after the 1917 revolution, the Bolsheviks persecuted and ridiculed the practice of faith by Jews and Christians for 70 years. Atheism, which promoted dialectical materialism, became the state religion. After the failure and fall of communism, Russia has experienced a resurgence of faith among the people. Polls indicate that 55% of Russians now claim to be believers, with only 5% remaining Atheists. Now Atheists have become offended by the growing belief in a God they don't believe exists. If Atheists were right, why should it matter to them if others believe in God?

Now the Russian Atheists have formed a new organization to protest the growing power of religion in Russian government. The new Russian revived anthem describes the nation as a 'holy country' that is 'protected by God'. Atheists are offended by such lyrics and feel they need special protection as a threatened minority. Isn't it strange these same atheists were silent during the murder, persecution and imprisonment of Jews and Christians for 70 years? Why do liberals hate religious freedom so much?

Most liberals are atheists at heart because they don't believe in any authority higher than their own opinions. Liberals believe government is the highest authority on earth. They believe that the collective wisdom of their intellectual elite to be superior to even the common wisdom of the people. It brings terror to the hearts of liberals when they see Conservatives with God-fearing values rise to power. Men like Robert Bork. must be "borked" by Senate liberals to preserve the liberal integrity of the U.S. Supreme Court. Even those from the "respected minority" must be viciously opposed when they espouse conservative views. Clarence Thomas is one of the greatest judges of our century, yet he was slandered unmercifully by liberals before his confirmation

Attorney General John Ashcroft will probably become known as one of the most honest and fair judicial officials to every head our judiciary system in Washington. No man is more hated and despised by liberals today than John Ashcroft. One of his greatest sins against liberalism was his acceptance of an honorary degree from Bob Jones University. His speech there simply rehearsed the importance of the faith of our forefathers in the birth of America. His views of authority are totally unacceptable to liberals. He has publicly stated that he believes the Rible is the inspired Word of God. This places his views on God and the Bible as a totally unacceptable position for all liberals.

America is a nation "of the people, for the people, and by the people" as President Abraham Lincoln so eloquently stated. The people include millions of Christian citizens who should feel free to seek public office and expect equal representation in government. We sing a little song in Church, "Dare to be a Daniel." It is time for Christians to become more involved as salt and light in the political arena of our great nation. Let God through the Bible speak by way of your life to our nation! Pastor "B"

Please pray for God's blessings upon the ministry of this column and our Websites http://onramp.i2k.com/~cba/ and at http://www.i2k.com/~cba/index.html We at Calvary Baptist Church invite you to learn more from the Bible about Jesus Christ. Are You "Ostrich-ized"?

Indeed, there are days when this ostrich appears to have the best solution to the endless challenges of life. We may feel discouraged... ostracized from the pleasures of daily living. Should we "stick our head in the sand"?

No, the "ostrich method" just doesn't work. It only prolongs our problems, as we bury deeper and deeper within ourselves. Unearth your head from that proverbial sand!

Shake off despair and look into the sun...it's still there. Hold your head high as those bright beams beseech you.

"Sure," you're thinking, "that's easy for you to say!"

God said it first. "For God, who said, 'Let light shine out of darkness,' made his light shine in our hearts to give us the light of the knowledge of the glory of God..." (2 Cor. 4:6)

Worship God each week, discovering the light for your life through His word. No longer will you feel "ostrich-ized".

Louie Gingerick 11/7/44 - 3/23/00

People come into your life for a reason - a season or a lifetime. When you figure out which it is, you know exactly what to do.

When someone is in your life for a Reason, it is usually to meet a need you have expressed outwardly or inwardly. They have come to assist you through a difficulty, to provide you with guidance and support, to aid you physically, emotionally or spiritually. They may seem like a godsend, and they are. They are there for the reason you need them to be. Then without any wrongdoing on your part or at an inconvenient time, this person will say or do something to bring the relationship to an end. Sometimes they die. Sometimes they walk away. Sometimes they act up or out and force you to take a stand. What we must realize is that our need has been met, our desire fulfilled, their work is done. The prayer you sent up has been answered and it is now time to move on.

When people come into your life for a Season, it is because your turn has come to share, grow or learn. They may bring you an experience of peace or make you laugh. They may teach you something you have never done. They usually give you an unbelievable amount of joy. Believe it! It is real! But, only for a season.

Lifetime relationships teach you lifetime lessons; those things you must build upon in order to have a solid emotional foundation. Your job is to accept the lesson, love the person and put what you have learned to use in all other relationships and areas of your life. It is said that love is blind but friendship is clairvovant.

Thank you for being a part of our life Louie. Your children and wife still love and miss you everyday.

Close the gaps in your medical history.

In these days of self-advocacy and personal health care responsibility, medical record ownership is very important. Having a complete record of your medical history, and your family's medical history, provides awareness, knowledge, confidence and control to you the patient, and it helps your physicians and other health care providers do a better job.

Beginning April 2nd, patients of the former Burns Clinic in Petoskey, during the years 1993 to 1999, will be able to get and keep original copies of their medical records. Distribution of these important files will continue for one year, after which all remaining records will be destroyed. So if you were a patient, or if you are the parent of a minor patient of the Petoskey office of the Burns Clinic between 1993 and 1999, go to the first floor of the former Burns Clinic Building in Petoskey where you will fill out a release form and pick up your medical records.

Photo I.D. is required and all records must be picked up in person. Release forms are also available on the Web at www.northernhealth.org and there is no charge for this service.

Program helps golf courses become environmentally friendly

by Geoff Malicoat and Lesa Ingraham Capital News Service

LANSING - The Cedar River Golf Club in Bellaire is taking steps to ensure that its greens are a little more green, as far as environmental impact is concerned anyway.

As environmentalists in Michigan still sound alarms and golf course superintendents still spray chemicals, their goals may seem forever at odds, but that's not necessarily true.

An increasing number of initiatives have brought these two groups together to help both move toward their goals. Superintendents want to make golfers happy and environmental groups want to limit the negative environmental impact of golf courses. Many experts agree the key to achieving these aims lies in the hands of the golfer.

While Cedar River is working toward certification as a "green" course, nine courses across the Lower Peninsula have achieved that status. They are: The Legend in Bellaire, Tournament Players Club of Michigan in Dearborn, Fox Hills in Plymouth, Egypt Valley Country Club in Ada, Bay Pointe Golf Club in West Bloomfield, Blackberry Patch Golf Club in Coldwater, Lakelands Golf & Country Club in Brighton, White Pine National in Spruce, and Gull Lake View Golf Club in Augusta.

Shanty Creek owns four golf courses, including The Legend and Cedar River. "The Legend completed the program a few years ago, now Cedar River is going through it," said Barry Godwin, marketing director for Shanty Creek. "I don't think the other two courses will be involved because they are a little older and there isn't much opportunity to change them, because the lay-outs are different.'

one-on-one assistance in devising an appropriate environmental plan.

For example, to improve water quality management, a superintendent simply needs to reduce the amount of chemicals used. That can be done in several ways. Instead of spraying the course on a continual basis, as in the past, many now gauge the threat of turf diseases or pests by course and weather condition. When those conditions arise or are likely to arise, the spraying begins.

Building buffer zones near lakes, rivers, ponds or wetlands can also protect water quality. unmowed areas surround water to absorb runoff from the course.

According to Greg Lyman, an environmental education specialist at Michigan State University, the importance of golfers having realistic expectations of their courses cannot be underestimated. They must realize they can't expect the same conditions they see on televised golf events on their own courses day in and day out, he said.

"Superintendents are there to provide the conditions golfers demand. To be successful in the environmental area, we not only have to provide buffer zones, but we need to educate golfers so that their demands are realistic," Lyman said.

According to Lyman, if fairways are sprayed and rain follows, the contaminated water will run toward water, or other low-lying areas. When water carrying the chemicals reaches the buffer zones, the chemicals are caught and held before they can reach the water.

Lastly, to help ensure water quality, golfers may have to put up with more inconveniences than in the past, as superintendents attack pests less aggressively with chemicals

Wildlife and habitat management is also an important piece of a golf course's commitment to the environment. Environmentalists have long said that golf courses disrupt the native wildlife and push species into other areas.

That doesn't have to be the case. According to Lyman, golf courses can be safe havens for wildlife. On average, 70 percent of a golf course's property is out of play. That means a huge amount of undisturbed land is suitable for nesting. If a course agrees not to mow those areas, it in essence creates or maintains a built-in wildlife sanctuary.

Many superintendents also are inviting in bird life. Scores of courses now have birdhouses and bat boxes, giving these creatures a place to nest, while the birds and bats help keep down the insect population naturally. Golf courses have been long criticized for the amount of water they use. To keep a Michigan course at an acceptable playing level during the summer can require millions of gallons of water.

Only recently have some courses made strides to combat this problem, and some now use treated wastewater.

Groesbeck Golf Course in Lansing, an 18-hole municipal facility, is an example. Several years ago, the city separated its storm water runoff from its wastewater. Groesbeck redesigned nine holes to accept some of the storm runoff into wetlands and other treatment areas on the course. That water will eventually be used for irrigation.

When a golf course takes part in the program and meets its goals in the six categories it receives a certificate of recognition. So far, nine courses in Michigan have been certified and 80 others are working toward that goal. School safety can be improved not just by a principal or superintendent, but by providing more social workers, counselors and psychologists,

Young said. "I think the problem we have in Detroit is intervention is needed on a lot of kids," he said. Detroit has a bad reputation among people outside Detroit, Young said. Amy Alderman, crime analyst for the Michigan State Police, said statistics support that "In the state in 1999, we had 675 murders. In Detroit alone, there were 415. So that is 61 percent of all murders happened in Detroit," Alderman said. "Usually, Detroit makes up a big portion of crime in Young said such statistics don't matter: "I think we're all in this together. What we have to understand is if there's only one child that can be saved by (the bill), it needs to be supported." The bill has been referred to the House Health Policy Committee. It's difficult to tell when the bill would be passed to the floor, Bernero said.

"I'm hopeful that my colleagues understand this is a major concern right now and we should act before a major incident of violence in Michigan," Bernero said.

LANSING -- A Lansing lawmaker is urging the state of Michigan to take action to prevent school violence before it occurs:

State Rep. Virg Bernero (D-Lansing) has introduced a bill to enable a child with a serious mental health problem to receive immediate help from a community service program. The purpose is to treat mentally disturbed children under 18 before they hurt themselves or other people.

"When kids are going down the wrong path, they are unable to get help, which is often the case," Bernero said. "The bill is trying to get the school and the community mental health to work together around the child."

Michigan is currently soliciting nominations from businesses and individuals. Contestants for Outstanding Older Worker must be 65 years of age or older, a resident of Michigan, currently employed, and working at least 20 hours each week for pay. The winner must be witting and able to travel to Washington, D.C. for the National Prime Time Awards Program events.

Nominations must include a brief narrative to discuss the older worker's overall contribution to the business, including longevity, experience, skill level, work ethic, any disabilities the nominee has overcome to perform his/her job, and a description of his/her community involvement.

Official nomination forms may be obtained from Green Thumb, Inc., 116 Court Street, Mt. Pleasant, MI

48858. Entries may be mailed to the preceding address, faxed to (517) 773-1421, or emailed to: joe_fortmann@greenthumb.org. The deadline for nominations is close of business, Friday, May 18, 2001.

A committee of business and civic leaders will evaluate nominations. The winner will be announced no later than June 15, 2001.

In addition to special activities and recognition within the state, the winner will attend the 2001 National Prime Time Awards in Washington, D.C. next September. The visit will include a tour of the city's landmarks, meetings with congressional representatives, U.S. Senate and U.S. House events, a tour of the White House, and the Awards Banquet and Ceremony at Union Station.

A search for America's Oldest Worker is also under way. Last year's winner, Robbie Eisenberg, 103, manages a zipper manufacturing operation for Zabin Industries in Los Angeles, CA. The 1999 Winner, Dr. F. William Sunderman of Philadelphia, PA, now 101, continues to edit a national medical journal. Applicants must work 20 hours a week for pay, and the one with the earliest birth date is declared the winner. Nominate via the Internet at www.greenthumb.org or contact the state Green Thumb office at 1-800-

772-5550 (Michigan only). Because the business community is integral to the success of older workers, Green Thumb will recognize three outstanding employers representing small, medium and large businesses during its National Prime Time Awards. "These awards acknowledge employers who have broken from traditional human resource models and developed exemplary programs in retaining and recruiting mature workers," said Green Thumb president and CEO, Andrea Wooten.

Criteria include providing exemplary models for promoting positive older worker images, developing aging-friendly workplaces, targeting recruitment of older workers, retaining older employees, creating innovative programs for older workers, and demonstrating how their commitment to hiring older workers has made a difference to the company.

Companies may apply for consideration or be nominated by an outside party. Applications may be downloaded or submitted on-line at www.greenthumb.org. Completed applications may also be mailed to the Green Thumb State Office no later than May 15, 2001 Contact information and address are stated earlier in this article.

Adult children prove valuable to elder care quality

For older Americans, living with an adult child has some unexpected advantages, a new University of Michigan (U-M) study shows. The study, published in the current (February 2001) issue of Medical Care, finds that unmarried people age 70 and older who lived with their adult children received about 40 hours a week of paid home care compared with 26 hours received by unmarried elders who were equally disabled and lived alone.

"Having an adult child on hand to 'navigate' the Medicare system seems to have a major impact on the amount of home care the elderly receive," says Kenneth M. Langa, an assistant professor of internal medicine at the U-M Medical School and first author of the study.

The study findings, showing that the bulk of the skyrocketing increase in paid home care during the mid-90s did not go to older Americans with lower levels of social support, provide new insights for the public policy debate on how to meet the needs of an aging population while also limiting steep cost increases.

For the study, Langa and colleagues analyzed data on more than 3,000 Americans aged 70 and over from the Health & Retirement Study, funded by the National Institute on Aging and conducted at the U-M Institute for Social Research, the world's largest academic survey and research organization. All of those studied were at least 70 years old, lived in the community rather than a nursing home or assisted living facility, and needed help with one or more daily activities, such as eating, dressing, bathing, walking across a room, preparing meals, taking medications, or managing money.

For the analysis, Langa and U-M researchers Michael E. Chernew, Mohammed U. Kabeto, and Steven J. Katz compared the amount of paid home care received in 1993 and 1995 by three groups of older men and women: the married, the unmarried who lived alone, and the unmarcases, their adult children.

They controlled for a number of variables that might effect the amount of paid home services needed and received, including age, gender, race, chronic medical conditions, number of daily activity limitations, recent hospitalizations and nursing home stays, economic status, and the amount of unpaid care received from family members.

After adjusting for all these factors, they found that, among those who received paid home care in 1993, the unmarried elderly who lived alone received about 24 hours a week, the unmarried who lived with others received 13 hours, and the married couples received 18 hours a week. By 1995, those figures had increased to 26 hours, 40 hours, and 24 hours, respectively.

During the period studied, public expenditures for home health care services exploded, the authors note, growing about 20 percent per year, from $5 billion to $18 billion ried who lived with others, in most between 1990 and 1997. In comparison, private spending on home health care grew by only about nine percent per year.

"Whether you think that this distribution of services is good or bad depends on your view of the goals of home care," says Langa. "If the purpose of paid home care is to help adult children care for their parents, then getting paid help may allow them to do this while staying in the

"If you believe that the purpose is to target the vulnerable elderly who are socially isolated, in the hope that providing paid home care will reduce the likelihood they'll need to move into nursing homes, then the result of the study is not as reassur-

Langa and his colleagues plan to analyze the 2000 wave of data from the U-M Health & Retirement Study to see how the use of paid and unpaid home health care was affected by 1997 changes in the Medicare payment system designed to control skyrocketing home care spending.

Express your healthcare wishes with advance directives

GAYLORD - You have the right to accept or refuse medical care. Unfortunately, if you become unable to communicate your treatment wishes, those decisions may have to be made for you. Creating an advance directive gives you the opportunity to write down your medical wishes and legally appoint someone else to carry them out in the event that you are unable to.

An advance directive is the same as a patient advocate form or Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care. These forms are available in the registration area at Otsego Memorial Hospital. Once A machine that breathes for a person completed, keep the original and provide copies to your physician, local hospital, EMS unit, and the person designated as your advocate. Then, if you are ever in a situation where you can not participate in decision making, health care providers will be able to follow the directives with the help of your appointed patient advocate. Like other legal documents, your Durable Power of Attorney conditions and advocate may change at your discretion by completing an updated form.

In order to execute an advance directive, an individual must weigh the benefits and burdens of many different treatment options. Some of these options include:

· CPR: Restarting the heart after it has stopped beating

Nutrition/hydration tubes: Keeping someone alive by feeding them nutrients or fluids through a

• Use of a ventilator or respirator: burden is taken from family thus if they can not breathe on their own Accepting blood transfusions, chemotherapy or dialysis as treatment options. • Approve or disapprove diagnostic tests, surgical procedures, and programs of medication.

· Consent to donate organs and

Decisions about end-of-life treatment options are difficult to discuss and often people do not understand the choices available to them. Your doctor can provide you with the information necessary to make decisions that are right for you and your life style, and the Hospital can also give you assistance to make this process easier.

Having your advance directive in place often eases the burden of family members or friends who otherwise may be asked to make life and death decisions. When your wishes are already recorded, and the chosen and white advocate can relay those wishes, the reducing their guilt and anxiety.

Please take time to review some of the following questions designed to help explore your personal beliefs treatment preferences. Examining your values about quality of life, is the first step to successfully completing your Advance Directives.

• Evaluate what it is that makes your life worth living. What goals do you have for the future?

· How important are independence and control in your life?

· Do existing medical problems affect your ability to function? · What will be important to you when you are dying? · Who is the person you feel would best represent your wishes if you are incapacitated? • Do your religious beliefs affect your attitude toward serious illness and medical procedures? For more information about Advance Directives for Health Care, contact OMH Social Worker, Jeanne Steil, at (517) 731-2190.

Legislators seek ban on gas/oil drilling in Great Lakes

LANSING - Echoing the sentiments of a majority of Michigan residents recently polled on the issue. State Representative Julie Dennis (D-Muskegon) and State Senator Gary Peters (D-Bloomfield Township) on, March 14 unveiled a legislative initiative to ban oil and gas drilling on the Great Lakes. Tanya Cabala of the Lake Michigan Federation, who released a report questioning the benefits of drilling in Lake Michigan, joined the legis-

"It is clear that Michigan residents are very protective of the Great Lakes and their importance to our quality of life," dennis said. "Today, we are here to press for action to protect the lakes from harmful, environmentally-destructive practices. We have bipartisan support in both chambers for the moratorium resolu-

Rep. Dennis and Sen. Peters unveiled Concurrent Resolutions that urge the Departments of Natural Resources and Environmental Quality to continue the moratorium on the issuing of new oil and gas leases or drilling permits that would allow directional drilling under the Great Lakes. The legislators each have introduced legislation in their respective chambers that would ban the practice under the Great Lakes. "While there are a few direction-ally drilled oil and gas wells on the Great Lakes, there are many groups and individuals who strongly oppose the practice," said Peters. "These groups and individuals feel that even with the strongest safeguards in place, the environmental risks far outweigh the benefits."

Both legislators pointed to a recent poll by EPIC-MRA that showed overwhelming public opposition to oil and gas drilling in the Great Lakes. After hearing arguments that oil and gas from the Great Lakes basin could help reduce American dependence on foreign imports, the poll's respondents were evenly split on support. After hearing that oil and gas form the Great Lakes basin would do little to combat high gas and oil prices, opposition to drilling increased.

In a report released at today's conference, the Lake Michigan Federation said that the Department Michigan Environmental Quality (DEQ) actively promotes oil and gas drilling in the Great Lakes and does not provide strict, objective regulatory oversight. The report also points out the state does not have a comprehensive energy policy that promotes renewable energy, conseration and efficiency

"Michigan lacks detailed information about the state's demand for energy, and the direction of current and future oil and gas exploration in our state," Dennis added. "We also need increased federal oversight in oil and gas drilling in the Great Lakes. I am glad Congressman Bart Stupak has introduced federal legislation to prohibit this practice in the Great Lakes.'

The state has imposed a temporary moratorium on new oil and gas permits while it studied the impact and risk of oil and gas drilling. This came after a company was awarded a great public outcry and criticism. All oil and gas wells that have been explored in the Great Lakes have been drilled in waters off of Manistee County.

"Even though there has been a temporary ban in place, we will push for a permanent ban," Peters "We also need greatly improved oversight at the state level. The DEQ needs to be a more objective advocate for protection of the Great Lakes, and not an exploiter of our resources."

According to the report issued by the Lake Michigan Federation, oil and gas drilling on the Great Lakes poses a number of risks. These include the emission of hydrogen sulfide, a highly toxic gas that is a byproduct of oil and gas exploration. The gas currently is carried in a network of pipelines in Manistee, Mason and Oceana counties to processing facilities that remove the sulfides. The DEQ claims small releases or leaks of the gas will not cause permanent health effects. However, no public health standard exists in the state for exposure to hydrogen sulfide at wells, pipelines and processing facilities.

Other risks include several toxic and carcinogenic materials that are present at oil production sites, spills or leaks of oil into groundwater, and the impact on coastal wildlife and plants. According to the report, just one quart of oil can contaminate up to 2 million gallons of drinking water, and four quarts can cause an oil slick approximately eight acres in size. The Lake Michigan watershed is the nation's third largest population center - 10 million people rely on the lake for safe drinking

There also are economic risks associated with the loss of tourism because of oil and gas drilling on the Great Lakes, the report said.

Huron-Manistee old growth assessment complete

The Huron-Manistee National Forests have completed the Old Growth Settlement Agreement Environmental Assessment. The primary purpose of the environmental assessment was to determine where approximately 173,000 acres of old growth should be located within the National Forests and the best way to manage old growth. The environmental assessment also evaluates forest-wide guidance of aquatic and riparian area management and the need to increase semiprimitive recreation by approximately 10,500

Since 1986, the Huron-Manistee national Forests has planned for approximately 173,000 acres of old growth. The original plan was to not specifically designate stands to be managed for old growth. The Forests entered into an agreement that called for locating and mapping areas that would be managed specifically for old growth. Since most of the forest is younger than 100 years of age, old growth is a desired future condition.

The forests analyzed seven old growth designs. Forest Supervisor Jim Schuler has identified Alternative 2 as the old growth design he is leaning towards because it best meets the old growth settlement agreement criteria and provides for biodiversity.

Schuler is also proposing to manage old growth primarily through natural process except where restoration needs warrant management. An example of areas needing restoration would be red pine plantations that are included in the old growth design. The activities and uses currently approved for all old growth areas would remain the same. This would allow the public to use the recreate future old growth areas in a variety of settings ranging from rural, natural roaded, semiprimitive, and primitive recreation opportunity spectrums. Minimal. if any, adverse effects are anticipate to the physical, biological, social, and economic environments as a result of the old growth proposals.

Forest-wide aquatic and riparian area standards and guidelines would improve the Forests' aquatic and riparian areas through best management practices and buffer zones. Guidance is also included in where and how stream restoration activities such as streambank stabilization, sediment traps, and large woody debris placement can occur.

Three new semiprimitive areas totaling approximately 10,500 acres are also being proposed. Loda Lake and Condon Lakes East would be managed for semiprimitive motorized recreation and Condon Lakes West would be managed for semiprimitive nonmotorized recreation. Presently approximately 6% (59,000 acres) of the Forests' lands are designated as semiprimitive areas. This decision would increase semiprimitive by 1% of the Forests' lands.

Semiprimitive designation would promote and encourage recreation and uses that are challenging and less impacting to the land. These are million Americans have hypertension, or high blood pressure. It's a dangerous disease that can lead to congestive heart failure, stroke, kidney damage, and a host of vascular problems. It strikes certain ethnic and age groups especially Hypertension is called the silent killer because it has no symptoms and, in most cases, no known cause. It is a disease, however, that can be treated and controlled quite successfully - both at your doctor's office and at home.

Researchers at the University of Michigan have just completed a study of home blood pressure monitoring units to determine their accuracy and their potential benefits in fighting hypertension.

They concluded that, while patients with hypertension must be followed and treated by a medical professional, home blood pressure monitoring units can help doctors and patients in accurately tracking the disease and in monitoring the effectiveness of blood pressure medications.

"We analyzed a lot of monitors that we bought at the local pharmacy and other stores in the community, and we found that they're very accurate," says Steven

A staggering 40 million to 50 Yarows, assistant professor of a silent disease - and hypertension internal medicine in the U-M Health System. "The units out today allow you to take your blood pressure at home with the accuracy you have at your doctor's office. Anyone who has hypertension and is on medication, I advise that they should buy a home blood pressure

> Electronic blood pressure units come in three types. The one Yarows says is best is the kind similar to your doctor's office. It has a cuff that applies to the upper arm and is typically the most accurate. There also are devices that apply at the wrists and others that you slip your finger into. Yarows advises against the wrist and finger units especially the finger types because there is far too much variation in their readings.

Yarows says it's important for patients with hypertension to have their blood pressure monitored frequently because medication strength is set in relation to a person's particular blood pressure level. If it rises or falls over time, the medication may need to be adjusted.

"You don't want to take a pill for is truly a silent disease - and not be able to see if it's doing you any good," he says. "You want to make sure the medication you're taking is working and the best way to do that is to monitor your blood pressure on a regular basis."

He also says it's vital, even if you are monitoring blood pressure at home, to see your doctor regularly. "Medicines do need to be changed. new medications are developed, and periodically new medical studies come out that indicate a particular type of medication might not be right for certain patients."

Yarows cautions that there are some common mistakes to avoid when taking your blood pressure at home. "The most common mistake is that people sit down and take their pressure immediately. If you walk down a hall, your blood pressure goes up because you need more blood pumped to your body. So, if you sit down and take your blood pressure right after walking to get the monitoring device, your blood pressure will be raised and the reading will not be accurate. It's best to wait for five minutes before taking your reading."

Other things that raise blood pressure and lead to artificially high readings include talking, crossing your legs, sitting on something that has no back support, and using a cuff that is too small for your arm.

Yarow also advises that blood pressure reading taken at home are likely to be lower than those at your doctor's office. "This is natural," he says. "We're usually more upset or anxious when we're at a doctor's office.'

A blood pressure reading at your doctor's office of 140 over 90, or greater, is considered high and a danger to your health. So, Yarows says, a normal home blood pressure reading should be anything from 130 to 135 over 80 to 85, or

In addition to medication, a person can lower their blood pressure by limiting salt intake; modifying their diet to one rich in fruits, vegetable and low-fat food; by exercising; and quitting smoking.

Monitors improve patient care

Otsego Memorial Hospital has installed a new patient monitoring system in its operating suites, which enables anesthesia providers to deliver a more precise amount of anesthesia throughout surgery.

The Bispectral IndexTM (BIS) monitor assists anesthesia providers in administering a tailored dose of anesthesia to meet each individual's needs throughout surgery.

Patients' individual anesthetic needs may vary widely based on such factors as age, weight, and medical history. With the BIS monitor, anesthesia providers can continuously assess a patient's level of consciousness throughout surgery and make fine-tuned adjustments to the types and quantities of anesthetic drugs administered, depending on each individual's needs.

With this technology, most patients realize fewer post-operative side effects, such as nausea and vomiting, and faster, more predictable recovery after surgery.

"Traditionally, we have relied on indirect signs -- such as heart rate and blood pressure -- and clinical experience to determine the appropriate amount of anesthesia for each patient," said John Novosad, M.D., anesthesiologist at Otsego Memorial Hospital.

"With the BIS monitor, we now directly monitor a patient's level of consciousness during surgery," he said.

"With the BIS, we know we are giving each patient a more precise amount of anesthetic that he or she requires," agreed Scott Chandler, certified registered nurse anesthetist (CRNA). "This can lessen drugs, and allow for faster, more predicable recovery after surgery."

The BIS monitor works with a non-invasive sensor that is placed on the patient's forehead to continuously monitor brain waves. The brain waves are computed into a number (ranging from 100 to zero) that correlates with the patient's level of consciousness: At 100 the patient is wide awake and under 60 the patient is likely to be unconscious, according to clinical stud-

The Bispectral Index monitor is manufactured by Aspect Medical Systems of Newton, Mass. More information is available at www.aspectms.com.

Otsego Memorial Hospital anesthesia providers will be monitoring patients during more than 3,000 surgical procedures in 2001. The result being faster recovery from anesthetics and a cost-savings by administering a more precise level the postoperative side effects of the of drug to patients.

Rotary Ambassadorial Scholarship applications available announces the availability of applications for the 2002-03 Rotary Foundation Ambassadorial Scholarship. The applications are available online at: www.rotary.org /foundation/. The Ambassadorial Scholarship is the Rotary Foundation's oldest and best known program. Established in 1947, more than 30,000 men and women from 100 nations have studied abroad under its auspices. Ambassadorial Today. the Scholarships Program of the Rotary Foundation is the world's largest privately funded international scholarships program. More than 1,200 scholarships were awarded for study in 2000-01. Through grants totaling approximately US $26 million, recipients from some 69 countries will study in more than 64 different nations.

The purpose of the Ambassadorial Scholarships program is to further international understanding and friendly relations among people of different countries. Today, the program sponsors several types of scholarships for undergraduate and graduate students as well as qualified professionals pursuing vocational studies. While abroad, scholars serve as ambassadors of goodwill to the people of the host country and give presentations about their homelands to Rotary clubs and other groups. Upon returning home, scholars share with local Rotarians and others the experiences that led to greater understanding of their host countries.

A benefit not found in other

The Gaylord Rotary Club scholarship programs is the scholar's association with Rotary clubs and Rotarians. Each scholar is assigned both a sponsor and a host Rotarian counselor who provide orientation, advice, and assistance. Many former scholars serve important posts with their governments; others are highly respected in their fields. Examples of outstanding Rotary alumni include: Bill Moyers, a prominent U.S. journalist; Sadako Ogata, U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees; Paul Volcker, former chairman of the U.S. Federal Reserve Board; Carlos Alberto Da Mota Pinto, former prime minister of Portugal; Otto Borch, Danish Ambassador to the U.S., and Roger Ebert, a popular U.S. film critic.

Scholarship availability is determined by local Rotarian contributions to The Rotary Foundation.

The scholarship offered by the Gaylord Rotary Club is the Academic Year Ambassadorial Scholarship. This grant provides funding for one academic year of study in another country. This award is intended to help cover round-trip transportation, tuition, fees, room and board expenses, and some educational supplies up to US$25,000 or its equivalent. Academic-Year Scholarships are the most common type of scholarship offered; nearly 1,000 were awarded for study in 2000-01.

Some Rotary Clubs also offer Multi-Year Ambassadorial Cultural Scholarships ог Ambassadorial Scholarships. More information is available on these programs n the Rotary Foundation website: www.rotary.org/founda-

The Gaylord Rotary Scholarship Committee will begin accepting applications April 1, 2001. The application deadline is May 1, 2001. Completed applications may be mailed to: Rotary Club of Gaylord, P.O. Box 1084, Gaylord, MI 49734. The Committee will review applications June 2, 2001 and forward recommended candidates to Rotary Foundation International for consideration Candidates selected by Rotary International will be notified by December 15, 2001. The Gaylord Rotary Scholarship Committee members are: Marcus Wegmeyer, Scott Zimmerman, Burmeister, Kevin Rosemary Johnson, Ellen Bonter and Tom Lemon.

Specific terms of Rotary Foundation Scholarships apply:

· Study or training must be undertaken in another country or territory in which there are Rotary clubs but not in the sponsoring Rotary country or district.

 Although applicants are asked to list their preferred study locations, The Rotary Foundation Trustees reserve the right to make assignments to any suitable institution to ensure the widest possible geographical distribution of scholars. Candidates must be flexible in their study institution assignments.

• Scholars will not be assigned to study in a city, state, or province where they have previously lived or studied for more than six months. As a result, the scholarships are not appropriate for foreign students seeking to continue studies at a given university.

 Each scholar is responsible for applying directly to the assigned study institution, gaining admission, obtaining required visas, and making travel arrangements. The scholarship may not be used in conjunction with a study-abroad program affiliated with a home country institution.

· Scholars must locate funds to cover all expenses that are not specifically funded by their scholarships of for which their scholarships are not sufficient. Scholarships will not be increased to cover spouses, dependents, or anyone other than the scholar.

· Scholars may received additional funding from other sources during the scholarship period; however, The Rotary Foundation will not duplicate funds provided by other

· Depending on tax laws in the home and host countries, the scholarships may be taxable in part or in full. It is the scholar's responsibility to investigate tax regulations as they pertain to scholarship funding.

Cub Scout leaders get ready to send one batch of cars at the annual Pinewood Derby, held two Saturdays ago at the AuSable Primary cafeteria. At the derby, the dens of Cub Scout Pack 3993 raced their homemade vehicles down the wooden track, competing for a variety of prizes (and bragging rights).

Pack 3993's 2nd year webelos, "The Panthers," watch their vehicles race toward the finish line in a heat. For this year's Pinewood Derby, infrared start and finish lines were used and hooked up to a computer for instant results, which were displayed for the crowd through a projector. Each vehicle was sent down each lane and the total times averaged to determine final scores. Races were decided by fractions of a second.

THE PINEWOOD DERBY

Nine "Bear Den" members watch the end of one race in the preliminary round. Each den of Pack 3993 raced separately, and the top three cars from each advanced to the finals.

Boy Scout members helped out by taking the cars from the finish line to the starting line for the next heat. They also made emergency repairs to damaged cars at the "pit stop."

Members of the 2nd of three "Wolf' dens watch their vehicles speed toward the finish line.

Deer hunters could get Saturday opening date

Capital News Service

LANSING - Deer hunters wouldn't have to take time off from work to try their luck on opening day, under a Senate bill.

Sen. David Jaye (R-Macomb County) introduced a measure this week to shift the firearms deer-season opener from Nov. 15 to the second Saturday of the month.

The legislator said he aims to reduce absenteeism in work places and schools because the shift would allow hunters to go out on Saturday without taking the day off.

The number of hunters would increase because of the day change. Jaye said. "This is an opportunity for us to give Michigan's economy a shot in the arm.'

Each year, hunting generates billions of dollars in sales and services, such as restaurant, hotel, hunting supplies and ammunition.

Jaye said the bill would improve the security of youth hunters because their experienced parents would be able to accompany them during weekend.

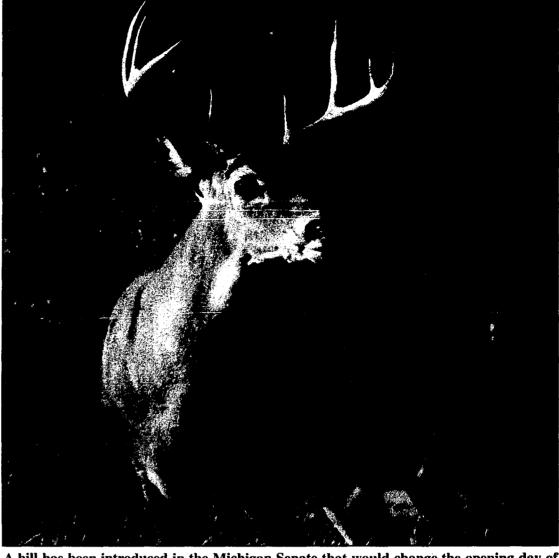

The measure will be sent to the Senate Hunting, Fishing and Forestry Committee after Easter, Jaye said.

The bill faces opposition from the Department of Natural Resources and hunter-advocating groups, such as Michigan United Conservation Clubs, said John Urbain, a biggame specialist for the wildlife division of DNR.

"The majority of hunters wanted to let it alone," said Urbain, who referred to a survey conducted by the division last year. The survey showed 59 percent of hunters who replied favored the traditional Nov. 15, and only 27 percent of them embraced the shift.

The traditional Nov. 15 date has been followed by thousands of state hunters since 1925.

Urbain said the bill was also introduced last year, and the survey was taken to gauge the feasibility of

A bill has been introduced in the Michigan Senate that would change the opening day of firearm deer season from November 15 to the second Saturday of the month.

The tradition opening date is easy for hunters to remember, Urbain said. "It would be easier for them to schedule their hunting vacation one or two years in advance."

He added that hunters' respect toward tradition also contributed to the rejection of the new day. Hunters tend to go back to where they hunted last year on the same day each year.

He estimated about 500,000 deer were killed last year. He doesn't have the figure for the deer taken in Mason County, but he recognized Mason and nearby counties as big attractions for hunters.

"Hunters go up to northern Michigan traditionally and Mason is considered as a appealing resort for hunting," said Urbain.

The traditional Nov. 15 date opens the two firearms-hunting weeks when about 60 percent of the total harvest takes place.

"I don't think it would make a significant change because the traditional date has deeply rooted in hunters' minds for almost 70 years," said Ray Cummins, an avid hunter and director of the Ludington Area Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Hunters follow a schedule year after year and it's hard to break the fixed circle, Cummins said. However, he agrees that the proposal would increase the hunting combination of fathers and sons and possibly improve family relations.

HOROSCOPES

For the week or March 19 thru March 25

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19):

The need for control over your energetic nature will be very important. The importance of channeling yourself toward specific goals is greater than ever. If it has been a while since you've set some new ambitions, this is an opportune time to do so, as your focus will be much sharper. Without this kind of direction, your taking unnecessary risks, and swinging from one extreme to another. pent up energy will need to be released one way or another.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20):

the special people in your life is exceptionally prominent this week. Regardless of your usual down-toearth approach, you are a romantic at heart, and this can be the perfect time to let this shine. Your desire to love and be loved will be enhanced. Spending time with your partner is sure to be very enjoyable for you both, and you'd be wise to see about a rendezvous.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): Suffering from frequent headaches can be an important indicator for you. The need to relax your mind is more important for your good mental health than it may be for others. You can bet that your mental processes will be stronger than every. The likelihood of exhaustion is also greater.

Don't be surprised if your tenderness and devotion to

CANCER (June 22-July 22): If you don't keep yourself busy and focused on the things that need to be done, you can experience a week where you find yourself wildly swinging from highs to lows. You can find yourself moving from blind optimism to a completely negative position. Further, you'll need to watch your tongue. You can be more impulsive and blunt when speaking. Telling it like it is can be a good thing, as long as you don't cut like a knife at the same time LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You're sure to feel energetic, optimistic, and ready to make some progress this week. You're not likely to find emotions or troubles weighing you down. Rather, you can expect to feel more ambitious, fearless of competition, and ready to take the initiative far more than usual. Take care that you don't hurt someone's feelings. You may find ourself speaking in an exceptionally direct way. Just be sure you use as much tact as is required. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Routine work and traditional types of jobs may not suit you very well. You probably find that you become easily bored with tasks that don't challenge you. Or it may be that you need to feel a sense of purpose and regard through what you do in your career. Even though you may be traditional in your approach to marriage or your home, where you make your money is most likely the opposite. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23): Jumping to conclusions can see you tall of regret. With your innate abilities to weigh things out and to find the most objective point of view there is, this kind of behavior can be very damaging to your self-image as well as to your relationships. Perhaps these instant judgements occur because you haven't had enough time to decide whether you trust the person or people involved. Be especially on guard for this kind of reac-tion on Friday. Make sure that you have the facts before you point a finger to avoid regrettable scenarSCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21):

Your leadership skills and ability to motivate others will be especially strong this week. Speaking your mind will also come readily. If these are things that need to be communicated, these can be the perfect days to say what you need to. However, you do need to take care that you don't rip or tear while telling it like it is. Use tact and compassion to avoid causing damage to your recipients. Spend some time relaxing or sharing with a special someone. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21):

Your sexuality will likely demand a little attention this Your sense of romanticism will be equally strong, so if you can, plan for a special rendezvou with your lover. If you are single, and there isn't anyone you'd like to get together with, do something to celebrate this part of yourself. Perhaps a new outfit, a therapeutic massage, or a different hairstyle will give your sensual self the attention it needs. Don't try to shut this part of yourself off. Look for ways to enjoy it! CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19):

Allowing yourself to be much more verbal in your relationships can bring a great deal of growth. While you're sure to be keenly aware of your affections, devotions, and loyalties, telling others how you feel may not be something you do nearly enough. This can be even truer for males. You tend to make the assumption that your feelings are known, and there's no need to restate what you think is obvious. Just because you married someone or have made a commitment doesn't mean you have to stop telling them

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Tapping into your visionary abilities can enhance the quality of your life in many ways. Truly, Aquarians are the perfect choice for this role given your ability to visualize and actualize. No other sign has the imaginative strength you have. By applying these abilities toward specific meditative exercises, you can bring about change in your reality. Wednesday can be the perfect day to give this a try. If you consistently spend time in a meditative, relaxed state visualizing the things you want to see grow and happen in your life, it will happen.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20):

Experiencing the love you desire in your life takes a great deal of effort. It's never a question of whether you deserve this or not - of course you do! However any relationship that is going to go the distance will take commitment, perseverance, and continuous growth. However, being able to trust enough to com municate your deeper desires and emotions can be challenging. Get together with that special someone in your life. Share your dreams and hopes, and communicate your affections. Take steps to build.

U of M life support system successful at saving lives of the art life support system developed at the University of Michigan demonstrates that the technique is very effective in saving the lives of infants, children and adults with severe heart and lung failure.

Researchers at U-M are releasing a detailed portrayal of the evolution of that life support system, known alternately as extracorporeal membrane oxygenation (ECMO) or extracorporeal life support (ECLS).

It is performed by a modified heart lung machine that allows a critically ill patient's heart and lungs to rest and recover while the device pumps and oxygenates their blood.

The new study is published in the February 16 issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association - a special edition devoted to the University of Michigan.

U-M researchers studied the first 1000 patients who were treated with ECMO since the U-M founded its Extracorporeal Life Support Program in 1980. They found that survival rates for patients gravely ill with respiratory failure were 88 percents for neonates, 70 percent for children and 56 percent for adults. For patients who were considered near death with cardiac failure, the survival rates were 48 percent for children and 33 percent for adults.

"The only time we use ECMO is for patients who we all agree have little or no chance of surviving their acute illness with other available conventional techniques," says Robert Bartlett, M.D., professor of surgery in the U-M Health System and the developer of the ECMO system.

"So, basically all the patients who are treated with ECMO, if they survive, their lives have been saved or prolonged by the device because our best information is that they likely would have died without it," Bartlett said.

The study also details how the U-M pioneered, developed and where it has now expanded to worldwide use. Currently, 120 centers participate in the Registry of the Extracorporeal Life Support Organization, all of which stem from the U-M program.

The registry of all patients in the world treated with ECMO is kept at the U-M and medical experts from around the world travel to Ann Arbor annually to compare and learn the latest techniques.

While it's origin lies in the heart lung machine, the system used for ECMO differs in many ways. ECMO can be used for much longer periods of time -- more than a month if needed, and the pumps, artificial lungs and, most importantly, the hookups are also differ-

The patient is attached through large blood vessels in the neck and leg, avoiding the need to open their chest. ECMO is also quite different than a ventilator.

"A ventilator breathes for the patient," says Bartlett. "It blows gasses into the patient's lungs and they come out. ECMO, on the other hand, takes over the exchange of oxygen and carbon dioxide, but it does not rely on the patient's lungs to do so. It doesn't involve breathing through the mouth or airway - it deals directly with the blood."

ECMO is also portable, allowing patients to be moved throughout the hospital. This also allows for long distance treatment of "Many of the patients who are considered for ECMO and referred to the U-M are too sick to be moved here," says Bartlett. "We have learned to take the machine to the patient, put them on ECMO in the referral hospital and when they're stabilized, bring them to the U-M for treatment in better condition.'

Bartlett began early work that would lead to ECMO prior to coming to the U-M. "It really started with heart surgery," he says. "In the early days of heart surgery in the 1960's, the heart-lung machine

The largest-ever study of a state advanced ECMO to the point was just beginning to be used and it was clear that patients who were treated with it for heart operations often developed heart failure or lung failure after those operations.

The initial concept was to modify the machine to keep those patients alive for a longer time so they might recover. We brought the idea to the U-M where it has grown from a laboratory curiosity into full clinical use."

ECMO was originally used primarily in cases of neonatal respiratory failure and showed early success. Bartlett attributes this to the fact that neonatal lungs are basically normal and recover quickly. The success in treating neonates prompted further research that lead to treatment in children and adults.

What does the future hold for ECMO? Bartlett thinks its success may mean its decline in use.

"The future of this technology is that for most patients, it will not be needed at some time in the distant future," he says. "The use of ECMO has allowed us to learn much about recovery of the heart or lungs from serious illness things we could not learn before because the patient died. We've also been able to learn a lot about treatment of heart failure and lung failure that would not have been previously possible for the same reason. This knowledge, made possible by ECMO, allows us to prevent the very serious progression of these problems and often prevent the patient from needing ECMO. It's sort of like dentists and the use of fluoride. If we get really good at it, we won't need it."
